Working with DCA

About DCA

Regulus™ Document Control and Archiving (DCA) allows you to store documents, manage versions, and do document check-in and check-out, as well as perform many other significant document change control management functions.

DCA also enables you to assemble document sets, and create Adobe Acrobat PDF files. You can work with Microsoft Word documents, or documents in XML or HTML format in DCA. Furthermore, DCA supports many document formats, including spreadsheets and other native file formats.

Specifically, DCA contains a comprehensive user and systems security function, user passwords control notification, and many other document management functions for cGMP compliance and 21 CFR Part 11 e-records and e-signature control. DCA allows you to route change control documents to various individuals, (i.e., a workflow approval process).

The workflow approval process is described in the flow chart, next.
